Pupils of district 5, town of Rock, have as a part of their language work written letters to Supr. Antislavery. Each pupil has a progress he is making on the subject he likes best. Letters were received from Helen O'Leary, Mildred Anderson, Mildred Leiken, Chester Skeels, Ethel Bader, and Miss Killings is the teacher.

Miss Selma Fenzel, teacher in joint district 1, Milton and Koskoning, has closed her school this week because of illness. District maps were made by the pupils.

A new flag has been secured by the children of district 4, Beloit, by selling their old flags. The exercises were held at the school yesterday. Miss Dora Conlon is the teacher.

R. E. Lee, Lima Center, and Miss Allene Manogun, Milton, were visitors at Supr. Antislavery's office Tuesday.

FITCH WILL MAKE RACE IN 5TH WARD

Assurance Given That Store Owner Will Run Against Alderman Dulin—Election, April 6.

A contest for alderman from the Fifth ward became assured today when it was learned that nomination papers circulated for J. P. Fitch, owner of a general merchandise store at 923 Western avenue, had been signed by enough voters to insure his name being placed on the ballot to be voted on April 6. Alderman J. J. Dulin, president of the council, has already announced his candidacy to succeed himself in the Fifth ward seat and papers have been circulated for him.

With Garbutt and Horn running in the First ward and Traver and Fritz in the Fourth, three aldermen in contests now seem assured. Owing to illness, Mr. Fitch could not be communicated with today to confirm the report that he was going to make the race against Dulin.

Quiet in Other Wards.

There appeared no new developments today in the Second and Third wards where W. W. Menzies and L. D. Cronin are running to succeed themselves, so far without announced opposition.

It was also stated today George Palmer, North High street, would be a candidate for constable in the Fifth ward at the election April 6. Nomination papers for the various candidates will be filed with City Clerk E. J. Bartlett next week, Monday being the first day on which they may be legally filed. All must be filed on or before Thursday, March 25.

BELOIT WOMAN GETS $3,000 SETTLEMENT

Suit of Grace Brandt for $3,000 back wages for five years and five months as housekeeper and store manager for Robert P. Peschl, Beloit, has been settled out of court by the attorneys for $3,000. Mrs. Brandt, who had made a contract with Peschl in April, 1913, to act as manager of his bakery for a week and in return for caring for his home, cooking his meals, seeing to his mending and washing, she was to have board and room for herself and two children. She declared that she had labored under this agreement, sometimes all night, until September, 1913, when she was discharged. This was done, she said, despite the fact that she became to be considered as joint owner of the business, the nature of the contract having been changed to the Peschl Bakery Co., she being the only other interested party.

She also alleged that Peschl had paid her only $120 in wages while she had given him $300, payable on demand, and that he had returned only $50. Peschl had denied the allegations.

An Anti-Slang Club Can You Imagine That?

(BY PEG O'BRIEN.)
One day a mogul of the county, a school superintendent, in fact, stopped a reporter that one of his teachers, Miss Iva Holmboe, had organized a society by which she was educating the use of slang in her school, district 2, Fulton. Anti-Slang society was called.

The superintendent, a proprietor of a general merchandise store at 923 Western avenue, had been signed by enough voters to insure his name being placed on the ballot to be voted on April 6.

She showed "Specs." So, when a way from the American language was Miss Holmboe, it being her custom now to speak English, that she would help her pupils in educating the use of slang in her school, district 2, Fulton.

With Garbutt and Horn running in the First ward and Traver and Fritz in the Fourth, three aldermen in contests now seem assured. Owing to illness, Mr. Fitch could not be communicated with today to confirm the report that he was going to make the race against Dulin.

Information might be what was desired.

Teacher Is Member
It was not until the 15th day of January while listening to my pupils talking that I noticed they were almost unable to make an statement which did not contain slang. It occurred to me that an Anti-Slang society would aid greatly in making the use of better English. We organized with 14 members, including myself.

Gold Star for "Good" Ones
The pupils each day write down all the slang expressions which they hear. Just before school is dismissed in the afternoon each pupil reads his list, giving a word which can take the place of the slang, and of course conveying the same idea.

A Few Favorites
While the children of the school do not belong to the society, they too have begun to substitute words for slang expressions. One day a black star denoting that the pupil has used slang that day.

Some favorite slang expressions of my children were "Gee whizz," "Oh laws," "I'll say so," "Great grief," "You poor fish!" and "For heaven's sake!" The society will be in session again next year, as it is certainly serving its purpose this year.

Other Schools Working
This is only one instance cited because of the novel means of approaching the subject of better English. Many schools in the city and country have this year waged campaigns against poor English. Some schools celebrated "Good English week" by making posters containing fitting epigrams, writing essays upon the fetters which bind the man or woman who is handicapped by not knowing how to speak correctly.

Telling the World
Suppose you who are not in school, sometime try to convey your ideas without using one word of what our friend Webster taboos as slang. Would you even make your words known? Would even your nearest and dearest know what you were trying to say? Doubt it!

Such old standbys as "Who wished this onto me?" "Why the son stuff?" "Talk it from me!" "Stick your tongue in Mabel!" "That's all bunk, old scout, all bunk," and all the rest of the net expressions which are so common in daily life, confab, what would we do without 'em?

J. A. Seiner is chairman of the program committee of the Yahnbrook, E. E. Van Pool of the music, and E. P. Hocking of the membership. J. E. Auten is president of the Beloit Branch of the Yahnbrook.

Meeting last evening. He announced that enough money had been raised by voluntary subscriptions and by pledges to save the Yahnbrook from the New East Relief instead of the two for which they promised.

The supper was served by Circle No. 8 with Mrs. E. E. Van Pool as chairman. Mrs. Taylor Clark was in charge of the dining room and Mrs. J. S. Kearney the dessert. Green candles and wax tapers formed the decorations. It was a hold another meeting of the Brotherhood in April when some of the vital subjects connected with community life would be discussed.

FORWARD, JANESVILLE!

To make Janesville a better place in which to live and in which to do business, the Gazette pledges itself to work for and support these things:

Housing survey to discourage exorbitant rentals; encouragement of building more houses; gradual of property values so that rent profiteers may be made to pay the increased amount of taxes.

Open roads in the country 365 days of the year; better roads generally, and support of the road building plans; better streets and more paved streets in the city.

A market pavilion in the city which may also be used for many other purposes by farmers and livestock producers.

A community building to be used for auditorium, sport events, meetings, rest rooms, and also as a fitting memorial for soldiers.

Open the churches seven days a week and stop economic waste in room and time. Make basement places for the young, and provide gymnasium facilities.

Build a real home for the girls who come here to work.

Open the fair grounds this year as a recreation park with tennis courts and other play apparatus. Establish parks and playgrounds.

Better the street car service as population increases.

WHEN MY LADY GOES SHOPPING.

More and more, Janesville is becoming the shopping center of a great territory. It would be hard to find a city of the population of Janesville with opportunity for buyers more varied or with stocks more attractive. This week marks the beginning of spring in the stores. No matter what the calendar may say or what the weather man predicts, spring comes when the merchants put before the shopper all the new things that the genius of men and women in many far places have been creating during the winter.

When my lady goes shopping in Janesville she may be comfortably assured that she is able to see and buy with a certainty of satisfaction. Merchants of the city have done well to broaden the trade territory of the city and to spread the story of Janesville as a shopping center over a wide area. It is a great and growing asset of the city.

SIR JOHN J. PERSHING, K. C. D.

His Royal Highness, the King of Great Britain and once in a while of Ireland, George V, and the queen, will hold a most elaborate function in Westminster Abbey in May. It is gone the less than the installation of the Knight Commanders of The Bath, among whom we have with us the American representative, General John Jacob Pershing, or Sir John. And even though we may not believe in the knighthood business outside of the regalia in our own lodge, a K. C. B. is not to be sneezed at or spoken concerning, in jest or in lightsome vein.

The British take this rustian and feathers with the same seriousness they do their beer and beef. And when the general of our army is dressed up for the occasion you will hardly be able to tell him from a movie hero in a romantic photodrama. As we are soon to get into this atmosphere of royalty and play the game of kings and queens, we should be visibly set up over the honor of having one of the Georges install an American in this most noble and tiff-armor order. Whatever it has to do with the bath is not stated in the chronicles. Let it be hoped that the plumbing is modern, anyhow. King George I. established it in 1725. Long years ago one of these knights was degraded because "he was no gentleman of blood, neither of father's side or mother's side."

We may say that the league of nations will date from this most auspicious and overwhelming event. Gen. Pershing's friends are trying to nominate him for president. Quite right; we never had a president who was a Knight Commander of the Bath, and it is time we did.

REPUBLIC OR SOVIET.

Failure of the militarist attempt to overthrow the German republic and the reestablishment of a part of the old order with a son of the Kaiser on the throne, has brought about the most dangerous situation possible for the peace of the world in the possibility of the establishment of the rule of the soviet in Germany.

Bolshevism and all the horrors attendant are loathing this day. It is the logic of events. A century of military mastery of the people has reacted. The proletariat of Russia is not the proletariat of Germany. Hence the German is the more dangerous as a bolshevik. Stable government in Germany of any kind is disintegrating and crumbling. Crowds will be in command for a time and then will come the tyranny of the individual as in Russia. It is the inevitable logic, mathematically inexorable. On the borders of Germany, on all her frontiers, are the lines of steel of the allied troops. Germany must fight the battles for herself and the slaughter and destruction must be hers. The task in hand is to keep disorder within her boundaries.

MR. HOOVER'S CHANGING MIND.

Herbert Hoover steps into the limelight about every other day. He got in yesterday with the publication of an old letter he had written to the president while the treaty negotiations were going on at Paris. In spite of a statement made in connection with the printing of the letter that Mr. Hoover had since changed his mind on some of these points, it remains true that he was opposed to the league idea more intensely than any of the republican or democratic opponents in the senate and his reasons are those of every true American who seeks to avoid complications in the pettiness and misbehavior of European politics. No explanation will put Mr. Hoover in the class with Mr. Wilson as a stubborn advocate of the treaty without reservation or change.

The effect of the letter cannot help but be disastrous to the ambitions of the Hoover following who wish him to be the democratic candidate for president, and certainly his explanation that he has changed his mind in some degree will not strengthen him with the republicans.

MILWAUKEE BIG OR LITTLE?

Milwaukee has gained $3,000 in population in ten years. Wisconsin is proud of Milwaukee as a city, and of the fact that she has passed Cincinnati and Washington, D. C. Population does not always make a city; there must be something else—a spirit of loyalty animating the people who live within its limits. There have been times in the last three years when Milwaukee was not a savory place. It had spots which have not been removed—leprosy and revolting. Some of them remain. With new people coming, new energy

OUR COUNTRY.

O, the Lord has blessed our country in a thousand different ways. He has lined its shores with water where the sun each morning plays. He has crowned its hills with splendor, and has sown its fields with grain. And I wonder with such beauty why the lips of men complain.

We've a land of silver rivers, we've the palm tree and the pine. And beneath our starry banner we have every plant and vine. Oh, I don't know how to say it, but the Lord has lavished here All that mortal man could wish for, for his comfort and his cheer.

In our mines are gold and silver and the more enduring steel. And there's not one lighted cottage but contentment should reveal. Here the children wake to laughter and the men, whoever they be, Find their every task the gateway unto opportunity.

Oh, the Lord has blessed our country, it is rich with happy fires. It is rich with every treasure which the soil of man desires. Here his soul may find expression in the joys he would attain. And I wonder in such beauty why the lips of men complain.

and a new sense of patriotism it may be that Milwaukee will be able to hold a clinic and rid herself of the things which are uninviting.

Mr. Lawrence notes that the president can do little with a congress opposing him. True, and well may the people be thankful that it is so. Were it not for an opposing congress the Bakers, Daniels and the others who have been running amuck with the money of the people would have free rein in the matter of appropriations for a world of fantastic ornaments for the nation.

Herbert Hoover suggests the president appoint a committee to audit the accounts of the war. Let that committee be Secretary Baker, Senator Hitchcock, and the head of the aviation service. A clean lot of linen will be guaranteed with this committee running the audit laundry.

The Oshkosh Northwestern is anxious to know how many millionaires there are in Wisconsin. Waste of time; they've got them. How many in Wisconsin are not millionaires, and why?

The Wausau Record-Herald says the Milwaukee Journal is "probably not very enthusiastic about having the republicans win the next presidential election." Where do you get that "probably"?

For Sale or Rent: Several perfectly good jails; used no longer or demanded for the original purpose, owing to the horrors and iniquities of prohibition. Now that there is a general demand for the saving of paper we have only two waste baskets full of press agent stuff daily. It used to be three.

It will be a sad blow to the New York World to find that Hoover believes only in a league of nations with reservations.

How Cotton Came Back

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN, Director

Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau, Washington, D. C.

Savannah, Ga., March 18.—With the price of middling cotton ranging from 35 to 40 cents a pound, and sea island cotton selling at the fabulous price of a dollar a pound, Savannah is enjoying some of the most prosperous days in a long and, on the whole, remarkably good season. The harbor is filled with shipping—and she now has ships for no less than 75 vessels. Her streets are crowded with motor cars and with dress-up, prosperous looking people. Her merchants are doing a record business. Everybody seems to be chuck full of money, municipal pride and confidence in the future.

Whole South Recovers
The condition in Savannah is typical of the wonderful recovery which the whole cotton-producing south has made since the dire days of 1914, when cotton was down to 6 cents a pound, and could not be sold at that price. Those were the days when President Wilson called upon all good citizens to "buy a bale of cotton" and relieve the south of its economic misery. It was a good many did it and sold the bale again, just as soon as they could. One man in Savannah, who bought two bales at that time, sold them at a profit of about $60 each. He would not sell them until a few days ago. He received about $200 a bale for his cotton. And so recovery has come. The secretary of the Cotton Exchange here, is always, he is the only man who bought cotton when it was down and held it for the present rise. After all, nearly all really good speculative chances are missed. Any man who had had sense enough to put a few thousand dollars in cotton in 1914 and to hold it until this year could have more than tripled his money. A few may have done it, but it was not at all generally known.

Cotton Feat at C. J.
Savannah's great prosperity is explained by the simple fact that while the cost of living has gone up 15 cents a pound, the cost of cotton has gone up about 300 percent in the same length of time. Hence everyone having to do with cotton is far ahead of the game. Dealers have made big money, and so have growers. The cottonmen are off riding around in cars. The ship building here has also been a considerable factor in the improvement of conditions.

Things here were perhaps at their worst in November, 1914, when, according to Mr. Teasdale, ordinary middling cotton sold for about 6 cents and sea island cotton for about 15 cents a pound, with a market hard to find. By the first of the following year trade was brisk, and in February, 1915, Savannah shipped more cotton than any other month in her history, nearly a third of a million bales of upland cotton and half a million bales of sea island cotton.

Cotton Rushed to Europe
This cotton was rushed to Europe to get in ahead of the war crops to Sweden and to Germany. No doubt its way ultimately to Germany. At this time some of the last direct shipments to Germany were made. The market price for these large shipments, just before shipping was set up, were from 8 to 9 cents for good middling cotton. The fact that there was a great rush to sell at such prices shows that no one anticipated the rise that was coming.

Nevertheless that rise began immediately, as an inevitable result of war conditions, and continued steadily up to the end of the year. In 1915 middling cotton was at 12 cents; a year later it was around 18 cents; in late nineteen it was at 28 cents.

ASK US

The Gazette maintains an information bureau at Washington, D. C., under the direction of Frederic J. Haskin. Questions will be answered on any subject. Those desiring information may write a letter to the Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau, Washington, D. C., and enclose a stamp. The letter will be answered by the bureau.

Q. Where is Christopher Columbus buried?
A. Cuba and Spain have both claimed the bones of Columbus, but it is now generally conceded they lie in the city of Santo Domingo, in the Dominican Republic.

Q. What are the rules for playing dominoes?
A. In the game as played by its greatest living exponent, "Uncle Joe" Cannon, at the National Press club in Washington, a single "snifter" or double, upon four sides of which it is permissible to play is called. Playing upon these four sides of the "snifter," the game is to build five or multiples of five, and each player built counts as he goes. When a player has not a domino to match one of the ends exposed, he draws until he gets such a domino. Whenever one player "dominates" plays his last domino he counts the points in the hands of his opponent and scores one for each five points. In case of a "block," the player with the least total number of points held is entitled to count the points in the hand of his rival. The game is for 300 points.

Q. What are the salaries of the British ambassadors in the leading European capitals?
A. At Rome, Paris, and before the war, in Petrograd, Vienna, and Berlin, the salaries of the British envoys ranged from $35,000 to $45,000 per year, as compared with $17,500 paid to the United States ambassador to the European capitals. The American ambassadors are the poorest paid of any such diplomatic representatives. The salaries of the German ambassadors range from $25,000 to $37,500, while those of the French run from $24,000 to $40,000.

Q. What is the population of Berlin?
A. A. S.

A. The city of Berlin, with adjacent districts, now has 3,801,225 inhabitants, according to the census just completed. The census showed a decided decrease in the number of males. In Greater Berlin, males decreased 54,000 and females increased 124,800.

Q. Are Americans allowed to visit the graves of our fallen heroes buried in France?
A. J. M. S.

A. Americans are not only allowed to visit the graves of American soldiers, but everything possible is done to help them in their pilgrimage. Visitors to graves in remote cemeteries are taken there in omnibuses operated by the Red Cross bureau in France. At Romagne, in the Department of the Meuse, where many Americans are buried, sleeping accommodations for 10 men and 10 women have been provided.

Q. What is the best time a destroyer can make?
A. H. L.

A. The U. S. S. Graham, one of the newest type destroyers of the navy, recently made 36 knots, which is little better than 42 miles an hour.

Q. What is meant by "Horse Latitudes"?
A. E. R. T.

A. It is the nautical name given to the belt of calms in the north Atlantic ocean between the region of the westerly winds of the high latitudes and the region of the trade winds of the torrid zone. Authorities differ as to the origin of the name, some claiming that it was derived from the fact that old sailing vessels, with cargoes of horses, were often so delayed on account of the calms that the animals perished from lack of water.

Sales were free and steady at all these prices. Mr. Teasdale reports that at present sales of cotton are unusually small. There is plenty of cotton in the harbor, but a lack of buyers at the current high prices. A great many people seem to think that cotton prices have reached their peak and are going to come down, though no sudden or disturbing decline is looked for. The exchange rate, crossed-up, makes the price still higher for all foreign buyers, is also a factor in the present dull market.

During a recent week only 500 bales of cotton were sold here, which is all. Nevertheless, everyone here is content and satisfied, for it is clear that the demand will keep cotton at a relatively high price for a long time to come. The tendency is to keep the cotton in the warehouses rather than sell at a lower figure. Savannah has warehouses facilities for 500,000 bales of cotton and there are said to be about 210,000 bales in these warehouses now. On the other hand, it is said that there are only about 100,000 bales of cotton in New York which could be delivered on contract.

Meanwhile the south has been enjoying real good weather. Last fall was a long, dry, hot one, with no frost until December, and that is the kind of weather which makes the fiber grow long and strong, and gladdens the heart of the Georgian.

Cotton Patch at Exchange
In front of the cotton exchange building here is a little patch of cotton growing in a circular flower bed perhaps 20 feet wide, and that little patch is a veritable barometer of the fortunes of the cotton-growing south. The brokers and shippers here look at it every day, noting eagerly how the weather and other influences affect it. Last fall it was a little weevil made its appearance.

The weevil seems to be the specter of Georgia's cotton-made prosperity. It is destroying a share of every crop, and it is steadily spreading. But by forcing the farmers to grow more and more hogs and go in for diversified farming, it is doing the state a good thing.

Only on One Crop Only
For nearly everyone has heard by this time, the curse of the south has always been to rely upon one money crop—usually cotton or rice. It is a fact that the south is ready to have weaned Georgia farmers away from that habit to a great extent. And the surest way to quit the habit of the cotton crop is to quit the growing cotton entirely for a period of years, all of the weevils move out or survive to death, and the growing of cotton can be resumed.

Thus the weevil seems not to be a real menace to prosperity here, and there are plenty of cotton growers who take the weevil as a temporary setback. The weevil has become temporarily unprofitable.

City Feat Grows
One of the most pleasing things about Savannah's prosperity is the steady and beautiful growth of the city itself. There is no other city in the south which has more of the charm and atmosphere, as many have observed before. The squares and parks filled with the trees of the oaks, which has more of the charm and atmosphere, as many have observed before. Q. What is the most popular town name found in the United States?
A. N. E.

A. The Postal Guide shows that there are 31 towns in the United States named Fernkin. There are 25 Washingtons. These two names are the most popular. The names of ancient cities are used quite extensively. There are 28 named Ferns in this country, 16 named Athens, and 14 for Rome.

Watertown.—Teachers in the public schools have been granted a bonus of $150 each by the school board to be paid in a lump sum at the end of the present school year. The action was taken after Ida Barganz, Ida Kopp, Mary Crangle and Bernard Corry appeared before a committee representing the teachers and petitioned the board for the bonus.

OLD HISTORIC HOME TO BE USED FOR CLUB HOUSE

Green Bay.—The new home on the Woman's club of Green Bay, which will be occupied by the club early next fall, will preserve one of the oldest homesteads in the city and much of the atmosphere of "historic Green Bay" of the 1850's and previous decades. The club has purchased the old Morrow homestead, built nearly 70 years ago, and it will be repaired and partially rebuilt retaining the general effect and restoring to it the green blinds. The front or main portion of the house will remain practically intact.

The wing in the rear will be rebuilt and extended to the side street to provide an auditorium 40 by 45 feet with a balcony on the long side. The lower floor, with its old-fashioned fireplace, will be furnished entirely with heirlooms of old Green Bay families, principally old mahogany pieces.

Oshkosh Motor Truck Mfg. Co.
Oshkosh, Wisconsin.

Gentlemen:

You asked me to give you a frank report on the Oshkosh 4-Wheel Drive since we have now had it in constant service both day and night for about one year.

It is almost inconceivable to realize that any truck could stand the grief we have given the Oshkosh. The truck has now made over 8000 miles through the worst conditions of mud, sand, and snow, and at times this winter it has been necessary for us to trail a bob sleigh with a combined load of 5 ton of cord wood.

When hauling slab wood from the saw mill, we must depend on this truck to deliver a full load to any part of the city in an average time of 27 minutes. Previously it required three teams to handle this, and often, after heavy rains, it was difficult for the teams to get their load out of the mill yard. During the night we deliver coal to the public institutions.

The tires look good for another 8000 miles, and the gasoline consumption is less than that of our light one-ton truck. The truck is actually running as good as the day we received it, and has proven to be the cheapest investment we have made, and has solved our hauling problems.

I believe there are many other truck users who are spending a lot of money in experimenting with the same conditions and costs of hauling as we did until we bought the Oshkosh 4-Wheel Drive. If any truck prospects could come to Stevens Point and follow our truck for a few hours, there would be no doubt about their purchase.

Also, the service policy of your company has been more than we expected.

Very truly yours,

T. OLSEN FUEL CO.

HENDERSON BEFORE JURY AT LA CROSSE

Desk Sgt. Jones Testifies
Against Window Washer
Held for Stealing Whiskey Here.

Harvey Jones, day desk sergeant of the local police department, left last night for La Crosse to testify before the federal grand jury against Ray Henderson, window washer, arrested on a charge of stealing two gallons of whiskey from the Reliable Drug Co. here a month ago. His testimony was due to be given today.

Henderson, a youth of 25, was taken into custody in connection with the local case of seven downtown offices here early on the morning of Feb. 14 when $130 in cash was stolen. As head of the Janesville Window and Glass Cleaning company he was suspected of having been at the head of the raid. He had a quart of whiskey in his possession when arrested that morning. Dennis Burglary Charges. All efforts to implicate him in the burglary proved futile. Chief Morrissey was able to dig up enough information to lead him to the belief Henderson had stolen two gallons of the forbidden liquid, but he also denied this charge. He was turned over to the federal authorities two days later, being taken to Madison by Deputy U. S. Marshal William Toulon.

Henderson holds the distinction of being the first man from Janesville to be taken before a federal grand jury on a whiskey stealing charge since prohibition took effect.

TALE OF UNHAPPY MARRIED LIFE TOLD

Judge Maxfield heard testimony today in a hotly contested non-support case, but who is to blame, Ainsmith, Beloit, by his wife, who for the past few months has been living with her daughter in Milton. Decision was to be given later by the court.

Charges and counter-charges brought out put the listener in a quandary as to who is to blame. Ainsmith, bringing suit to get money from his wife to support herself, charged gross infidelity, uncleanliness, and had called her obscene names.

Ainsmith denied ever striking any woman, said his wife had a hot temper and that she hit arguments, they had had were over their children—not between themselves. He denied he wanted to live with her but she would not consent to this and would "make up" with her children.

Both had embarked on the marital sea previous to marrying each other in Beloit five years ago and each had two children. The woman asserts she cannot go and live with her father in Beloit again because he is so abusive.

E. H. Ryan appeared for Ainsmith, with Dist. Atty. S. G. Dunwiddie prosecuting the case.

LIGHT SENTENCE FOR SERIOUS CRIME

Patrick Fanning, sentenced to one year in the state prison for a vicious attack upon a girl under 16, was taken to Waupun today by Deputy Sheriff William Hoven of the county jail.

Fanning was sentenced two weeks ago by Judge George Grimm in circuit court to which he had been taken on a charge of venue from Judge Cassel's court in Beloit. Fanning appeared for the defendant.

It was brought out in testimony in the case that Fanning had chased the girl into the kitchen, where he had home while her parents were away and had attacked her there. He had been working as a hired farm hand, was shown.

Much feeling has been aroused over the light sentence given Fanning for this offense. There is a movement on generally over the country to stamp out this class of viciousness and to make children safe from morbid and degenerates. It is said the light sentence was quite unexpected by the offender.

Stuck!

Mayer Welsh has always been a strong advocate of permanently paved streets, but particularly is he so today as a result of an incident which occurred in Second ward yesterday.

On a tour of the city to study general conditions of streets his car became stuck in the heavy mud on Prairie avenue. After several vain attempts to make the machine budge, he gave it up as hopeless and sent out an S. O. S. call to Fire Chief Con. Mues.

The chief's little "red devil" performed the trick in two minutes.

Madison, March 18.—The railroad commission will hold a hearing in Madison, April 9, which will be the purpose of determining whether or not the commission should issue an order prescribing that at all grade crossings of steam and electric railroads, trolley guards and other protective devices should be installed. A number of informal complaints have been made to the commission as to the lack of trolley guards at such crossings. The question has also been emphasized by several accidents occurring at crossings within the past year.

BIG BENEFIT SHOW TO HELP BASEBALL PUT ON BY SAMSONS

The sale of reserved seats for the Samson Company show, the "Jollies of 1920" starts Friday morning at the Myers Box office. The show runs for three nights commencing Monday March 22nd and is under the direction of the Joe Bren Production Company of Chicago. It is staged in two acts and five scenes. A cast of Janesville talent will make up the company. In addition to the minstrel scene, a typical Winter Garden Revue will run through the second act, with twenty Janesville women participating in song and dance numbers. Miss Olive Pope will sing "Baby" assisted by a beauty chorus, and Mesdames Edwards and Rossard, together with Messrs. McCulloch, Davy, Sagal and Dauksys will put on a rag time version of the Sextette from Lucia.

A dining car scene in which Bob Clitheroe has the part of waiter, promises fun. Theodrick Bradford and Bob Clitheroe, who scored comedy hits in the recent Lakota Club Follies, will appear in a rag time wedding scene which will undoubtedly be a scream from the moment the bride enters until the preacher ties the fatal knot.

S. H. Edwards is interlocutor of the minstrel scene and a large chorus of ballad singers and end men are to be heard. Alex Robb and Charles Correll, professional entertainers and producers, will assist.

Net proceeds are to be used to future baseball activities in Janesville, and record breaking crowds are looked for.

She Married an Average Man

By ZOE BECKLEY.

"Now ask your questions," smiled the doctor of the twilight sleep sanitarium when we had finished our tour of the house, seen with our own amazed eyes the mother of a 10-hour-old baby, looking as well as she had just come from a walk in her garden and heard from her own lips that she remembered nothing whatever of the baby's coming.

"Isn't it dangerous?" was the question that had been on my lips for an hour. "I've read that scopalamine-morphine had such bad effects," said I.

"You are right, it has," said the doctor, "when it is used in the wrong proportions or in inexperienced hands."

"Never otherwise?" I asked eagerly.

"Never otherwise," he said. "I never used it until over 5,000 successful cases had been treated at the Freiburg hospital, in Germany."

"And you studied there yourself?"

"For a year, yes. I use the exact formula of Drs. Kroenig and Gauss, who discovered what we call twilight sleep. They have employed it for about 12 years. The secret lies in just two things—continuous study and observation of each individual patient, and the utmost nicety in regulating the proportions of the drugs."

"It is always safe when used properly, isn't it given often?"

"Because it requires the utmost care and constant attendance of a physician who has long experience and expert knowledge," replied the doctor. "It is comparatively costly, too. Often methods of producing partial or entire painlessness have been brought forward, and some women prefer these."

"Can every woman take this twilight sleep?" asked Jim.

"Under normal conditions over 80 percent of women take it successfully," was the reply. "That means there is a small percentage where the arrival of the baby is so rapid that there is not time for the drugs to have effect, or where there is some organic trouble that interferes with its working. In a few cases the sleep is only partial; that is, partial memory remains."

"What do you mean, partial memory?" Jim asked, getting more interested every minute.

"The real twilight sleep," said the doctor, "is a state of clouded consciousness in which there is instant forgetfulness of present events. It is called painless because no memory or pain remains for a moment after it is experienced. It simply does not register upon the brain."

"Is that the reason Mrs. Blank is so recovered, able to sit up and eat breakfast though her baby is but eight or 10 hours old?" I asked, still marveling.

"Yes. A woman who has passed through the usual pain and strain of conscious birth would be unable to move about for many hours and would be in bed for two or three weeks. Mrs. Blank will be up tomorrow for a short while after having some simple exercises, and will have meals in the dining room in from two to four days. In a week she can go driving. In nine days she can return home."

We all looked at one another; Athena with a triumphant what-did-I-tell-you expression, Jim with a strange, dawning reverence toward the man who could produce these wonders, and I with a sense of joyous fearlessness I cannot describe.

It is settled that I am to trust myself and Jimmie, Junior, to this doctor who has devoted years to the ratification of that frightful ordeal which so many physicians have dismissed as "a natural process," and therefore not worth deep study.

With new courage and vigor I go back to settle our affairs, dismantle the house and end our brief existence in Hammonds Corners. If I feel a momentary sadness at breaking up the little home that has, after all, meant much to us, I resolutely tell myself that nothing can be built without the destruction of something else. We close a chapter only to reopen another. (To be continued.)

Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author.

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writers' names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

THE TEN GREAT MOVEMENTS.

In the Metabolish Symphony, by Brady, there are 10 great movements and a couple of more stunts. The earlier movements are all allegro and taken on the hoof, but as the theme unfolds and the bass of your heart thumping against your fourth rib joins with the ready wheeze of your breath coming sharp and fast you naturally decide to lie down for the four movements of the grand finale. There are 20 full beats for each of the first movements, and 10 for each of the horizontal, making just 200 beats to the whole piece, and believe me, children, long before the first gross of movements are finished the neighbors begin to wonder whether somebody is being murdered in your bedroom or the hired girl has got the asthma again.

Far be it from me to imply that the majority of business and professional people, including housekeepers in both categories, are downright lazy, but such is the sad truth. They are so plumb lazy that they don't absorb enough oxygen to keep life weaving on, and being half dead, as you might say, they are constrained to try some medicine or psychology in the hope of restoring life to dead cells. Autointoxication, the high class nostrum exploiters call this condition. Lack of pep the victim calls it. See the foregoing remarks for what I call it. The old time patent medicine man ascribed this under-oxygenation, slow metabolism, half-dead state to the liver. The liver is a big fat, bumpy but would never talk back. The high-brow exploiter of glorified cottage cheese today tells the Wischmeier family that it is all due to nervous exhaustion for which delightfully imaginable state his stuff is the proper "tonic." Well, every invalid or near-invalidly told this. This is a free country and no one is prohibited from making a snap of himself. In fact every one is invited to do so.

The Metabolish Symphony grows more pleasing with long familiarity. I've been playing it over on my economy now for several years, gradually adding a movement or rewriting passages, until now I feel that it is the right music for that feeling. It takes me something less than 15 minutes to play the entire piece through, and then I still have time for a few fancy rolls backward and forward, just to keep everything limber, and free of kinks. But I am not a big fellow. A big fellow might need a little more time.

Through the interest of a lover of this kind of music we have just published 10,000 copies of this Metabolish Symphony, and every reader who wants a copy to try over some old polkaism will receive it with the compliments of this newspaper, if he will file his request, together with a stamped envelope addressed to himself (but not necessarily "City"), with the blushing author, incare of this newspaper. Note (in G Sharp): Not a cent for the reader who sends loose stamps or a blank envelope or an unsigned request. By order of Dr. Brady.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Chocolate or Cocoa.

Does chocolate or cocoa dry up a person's blood? Also does the craving for it, by an expectant mother, have any harmful effect on the child?

ANSWER—No. Chocolate or cocoa makes a wholesome, somewhat nourishing, mildly stimulating, and usually harmless beverage for any adult. Tea or coffee is slightly more stimulating, but not nourishing in itself, and good for the health of most adults.

Children Show Good Judgment.

Can you suggest anything which will even partly serve the purpose of castor oil, something just as effective but not so disagreeable as castor oil? My children simply cannot take castor oil. (Rev. K. E. L.)

ANSWER—Your children probably inherit their good sense from their mother. There is no reason why any child should take castor oil—nothing but solid superstition. Aromatic syrup of rhubarb (U. S. Pharmacopoeia), formerly called spiced sugar of rhubarb, will serve every purpose of castor oil if given in the same doses.

A Fig for That.

I have been eating figs daily for constipation, with satisfactory results. But some say the seeds are injurious to the intestines. (F. A. F.)

ANSWER—Keep on eating the figs with their seeds. Seeds in fruits never

DIAMOND CUT DIAMOND

By JANE BUNKER

CHAPTER VIII.

Mrs. J. Bunker.

I had felt myself going and let myself down as gently as I could, under the circumstances. How long it was unconscious, I have to way of knowing, but it came to me gradually that my hat had been pushed—of what and by whom I couldn't imagine—but as for the diamonds, I forgot them. I was dazed and went to bed, pulling the blankets over my head and fastening them with a determined effort.

I woke in the early dawn and still hadn't come back to me about the diamonds; but what did swoon on the floor with a diamond ring in my hand?

There was a minute later than eight-thirty.

She was a red-headed little woman who had been better days—before she wedded the decently-lamented J. Bunker—and had to support him through "the good times" by day's work and money-making and ironing. My interest in her had been the main prop in her struggles for several years and she had been a devoted mother and a devoted wife.

With feverish haste I put the clothes on in the kitchen, and as they came to hand, the pictures hung and the rooms in order. The kitchen was in a state. I gave an impulsive gasp of amazement as I saw the breakfast table set for breakfast and I knew how my unexplained visitor had got out and wondered how he had got in. But I wasted no time thinking of it. I was soon enough to know, however.

I had barely finished with the kitchen and was opening the bathroom door to clear up there when my dear J. Bunker rang.

I let her in, first, asking through the door who it was—a precaution adequately explained by my advice, and telling her to begin at the kitchen and for I hadn't had my bath. I piloted her with a seemingly affectionate arm to her quarters. Then I bolted myself into the bathroom and with stealthy movements cleared away the evidence of the search.

My bath refreshed me, and I was clothed and somewhat near my right mind when I came out of the bathroom. I had called out to her, just before I got into the tub, asking her to make my coffee and get the rolls and butter, and she was occupied in setting my tray and did not hear me as I passed the kitchen door. Thus I had time to see what lay on the dining-room table before she told me.

It was a long thing, dagger, sharp as a razor. Mrs. J. Bunker, pulled open the kitchen door and bounced out just as I had taken the dagger in my hand.

"What's what I found on the kitchen floor back of the scrap basket," she exclaimed. Her eyes were rolling.

I managed to say carefully, "Yes—my new paperknife. I was wondering where I'd dropped it. I wish you'd bring in my paperknife in a moment or two."

"Oh—it's only a paperknife, is it?" she murmured in a disappointed tone. "I didn't know but it was."

"Well, it gave me quite a turn to see that dagger lying on the floor," she admitted with some spirit, "and I didn't think I could help thinking, 'now could I?'"

"Oh, naturally," said I, and laid it on the tray along with the scissors.

"You're not going to tell me that only yesterday, held a million dollars' worth of diamonds; and then I asked her would she please bring in my breakfast this morning?"

"Yes, I did," she said, looking at me with a puzzled expression.

"Oh, boy—boy," she said, looking at me with a puzzled expression.

"I don't feel very well," I said.

"Perhaps you better go right back to bed and let me stay and take care of you—I'd like nothing better."

"I don't want to go to bed," I said.

ROYAL POLICE OF CANADA ARE NOTED FOR HEROIC EXPLOITS

Ottawa.—Wearers of the "scarlet and gold" of the North West Mounted Police on February 1 renounced the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and are now charged with the enforcement of federal laws in all provinces of Canada. It is, for instance, as though the New York police force, has its "beat" extended from the metropolis to San Francisco. Many of these intrepid officers are sons of aristocratic British families and are veterans of the Great War. The metamorphosis of the great organization known as the North West Mounted Police, organized in 1873, when the Canadian North West was a sort of "No-Man's Land," recalls some of the heroic exploits of its members. One of the earliest of these was the heroic action of the late Gen. Sir Sam Steele, then a sergeant. A camp of hostile Cree Indians were obstructing the building of the Canadian Pacific railway. Sergeant Steele, accompanied by a "mountain" rode into the midst of the camp and, while the red skins indulged in promiscuous shooting and war whoops, calmly ordered chief Pie-A-Pot to get out within five minutes. The chief ignoring his order, Steele, mounted in a striking red coat, dismounted, leaped on the Pie-A-Pot's squaw, and, through the open door and kicked out the center pole, bringing down the tent on Pie-A-Pot and his squaw. The audacity of Steele's act in thus man-handling the head of the tribe overawed the Indians and they at once started to obey his order. Of the many international cases handled by the mounted police, one of the most famous was that of Sitting Bull, after wiping out General Custer's band in 1876, sought to use the Canadian border territory as a base of further operations against the Americans. With a mere handful of men the mounted police were able to control the Indians. The remarkable endurance of members of the force have been frequently mentioned in the press. The death of the Fitzgerald patrol on the Fort McPherson-Dawson trail in 1910-11, when Inspector Fitzgerald with Constables Kinney, Taylor and ex-Constable Carter died on duty, was a notable instance. The four bodies of the men who had perished on the long trail, were afterward found. The men had struggled on to the last, killing their dogs and even eating part of the harness. Fitzgerald, the last to survive, was found dead with his diary and a mail bag under his body. The Bathurst patrol made a two and one-half year journey into the Arctic circle, covering 5,000 miles in sledges on snowshoes and afoot, to arrest Eskimos for the killing of Radford and Street, two white men slain in 1912. They found the Eskimos and brought them to court.

EBERT RULE COMBATS SPARTACAN UPRISINGS

At a meeting of party leaders opinion was fairly unanimous that the war ministry should be held by a professional soldier. There is also a demand that other ministries be placed in the hands of experts. Ellis Loring Duesel, American charge d'affaires has informed the state department now that Dr. Kapp's regime has fallen, the whole danger lies in a communist uprising. Communist forces are reported to be marching on Berlin from various cities.

FIGHTING OCCURS WHERE SOVIETS ARE FORMED
The Hague, March 18.—Soviet republics have been formed at Dortmund and at Gera, 35 miles south-west of Leipzig, according to dispatches received here. At the latter place there has been savage fighting, it is said. In the fighting at Dresden, 50 persons have been killed and 495 wounded, reports state.

WORKMEN'S FORCES ARE IN POSSESSION OF TOWN
Copenhagen, March 18.—A message received from Dortmund, Germany, says: "Heavy fighting occurred here this morning between regular troops aided by members of the citizens' guard and the public security guard and armed workmen. The workmen overpowered the regulars, disarming them, as well as the citizens' guard and security guard. Workmen's forces are in possession of the town. Many have been killed and wounded."

EBERT ORDERS ACTION AGAINST REVOLT LEADERS
London, March 18.—President Ebert arrived in Berlin last night, according to a message received by an Amsterdam correspondent. President Ebert has ordered the imperial court at Leipzig to bring action against the leaders of the revolution. Dr. Kapp, General Von Luettwitz, Gottlieb von Jagow, Admiral Trosch, and Captain Erhardt, the correspondent says.

COMMANDER OF RAIP TROOPS QUITS BERLIN

"Marrying Pastor" Has Tied 4,500 Couples in 43 Years

OMAHA, Neb.—"Have faith in God—and get a move on yourself!" The above cryptic motto, in heavy italics, adorns the letterheads used by Rev. Charles W. Savidge, pastor of the Peoples church. Nothing could be more appropriate as an illustration of the fervent life of the pastor himself. For, in the 43 years of service as a minister of the gospel, he has married 4,510 couples and conducted church services for 2,513 funerals. Every community has its "marrying parson," but it is declared that the Rev. Mr. Savidge's record just about tops 'em all in the United States. In December 1 married 56 couples," says the Rev. Mr. Savidge. "Their marriage fees for that month alone amounted to nearly $500. In the month of February I married 44 couples in the 28 days. I do not know what other ministers have done in this line, but I am inclined to believe that this record is uncommon." At the bottom of the business cards carried by the Rev. Mr. Savidge is a space which he keeps constantly filled with the number of marriages and funerals he has performed up to date. "I want my record to reach 5,000 ceremonies," the pastor declares. "I expect to get in the remaining several hundred within the next few years, and may even reach 6,000 before I retire from the ministry."

GALILEO
Poor old Galileo spent most of his 70 odd years defending the Copernican system against all comers, and now along comes Einstein and muzzes things all up again. Of course, the stars go on twinkling and inspiring poets and performing their various heavenly duties just the same, no matter what theories we build around them. It is almost disquieting the way they ignore us, especially those of us who spend whole lifetimes writing books about them, staring at them with one eye glued to a telescope, quarreling about them, without getting one twinkle the more from them for all our pains. Galileo had an especially hard time of it trying to make people believe the earth was in motion. The way of a scientist was much more difficult in the sixteenth century than it is now, when the promulgator of a new theory, however wild, is welcomed with open arms and fall of page feature stories by all of the Sunday editors. It must have been hard for Galileo to concentrate, when the inquisition was always summoning him away from his telescope and asking him to change his mind about the universe or take the consequences. One can only be glad that he didn't have Einstein there to argue with him, too. For while Einstein does not deny the tremendous progress that science owes Galileo, he does say that since there is no unique absolute space (according to his theory) and since all motion is relative, it would be just as true to say that the earth moves with reference to a street car, for instance, as that a street car moves with reference to the earth. And it would be hard probably even for Galileo to argue with a person who talks like that. Nevertheless, Galileo would have taken him on without a doubt. Even in school his nickname was "the Wrangler" because of his disputatious habits.

cause of his disputatious habits. There is an interesting story about how Galileo discovered the movement of the pendulum as a measure of time. When he was a youth of 18 he was kneeling in church one day and allowed his attention to wander, as the attention frequently does at such a time. He looked up and saw a swinging lamp swinging to and fro. The rest was easy to his scientific mind—hence the pendulum. It is tragical that a man who was so keenly interested in seeing nature as she truly is should have spent his last days on earth in total darkness. In one of his last letters he speaks rather pitifully of his affliction: "I have been for a month totally and incurably blind, so that this heaven, this earth, this universe, which by my remarkable observations and my clever demonstrations I have enlarged a thousand-fold beyond the limits universally accepted by the learned men of all previous ages, are now shriveled up for me into such narrow compass that it only extends to the space occupied by my person."

NATIONAL LIBRARY ASSOCIATION PLANS GREAT EXPANSION

Expansion of the county library system is being pushed out by the American Library Association. Among other means of expansion the following plans will be worked out: to encourage libraries in industries will be encouraged; more books for the blind in the standard Braille type; translation into the best books about America into various foreign languages for the benefit of 15,000,000 new Americans; financing libraries for soldiers, sailors and nurses in hospitals; more books for the merchant marine; coast guard stations and lighthouses. A "books for everybody" campaign is being put on by the association to give greater opportunities for self-instruction through reading and study courses to be prepared under the direction of the association. The association will carry out the work for the next three years a fund of $2,000,000 is to be obtained by individual contributions of libraries and book stores. The American Library Association, Madison, of the free library commission, has been appointed regional director of the "books for everybody" movement in this district.

WORLD WANTS WAR SAYS ROCKFORD MAN

Rockford, Ill.—Dr. Benjamin W. Van Riper of Rockford college for girls, in a recent lecture before the student body said that the right of mankind to make war was put to a universal vote, the world would vote "for" to one for "no." His statement is being widely discussed here. "Mankind," said Dr. Van Riper, "would not, if it could, forego the right to make war. Excitement is necessary to the human mind in the race. War exercises our highest virtues—courage, sacrifice, heroism and social solidarity. There is ever a danger that we may have a morbid substitute that will call into play these same virtues. Take war away and human life would flatten out to death. The world is a battlefield of a planet with war gone and a Sunday school peace established for all time. The courage of warriors will be reduced only by education and the cultivation of human fellowship."

At de Janeiro—Eight thousand employees of the Leopoldina railway, serving Rio and two adjoining states, walked out, completely tying up the system.

FARMERS

Read What our Neighbors Think of the Farm Bureau

Two County Farm Bureaus. If a good beginning may be taken as a safe indication, the farmers of Wisconsin are not going to let themselves be caught in the position of being left out in the cold. They will become duly organized in every county into County Farm Bureaus and thus will not only be organized for business on a local basis, but will also become organized on a state wide basis and thus be ready to join the ranks of the American Farm Bureau Federation and so to engage in the process of agricultural team work all along the line—local, state and national.

Such team work will count; as was recently pointed out both editorially and in a series of articles in the columns of The Wisconsin Agriculturist. It will deal with that kind of business, marketing, transportation, finance, fertilizer supplies, farm tenancy, etc., over which the farmer can have no other direct control, except through organization, because it is business outside of his own farm's fences; but nevertheless strictly a part of his business as much as is the production of live stock and crops upon his own land. It is team work moreover, that is based on the local leadership of the farmer himself.

When the temporary organization meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation was held in Chicago last November, Wisconsin had no representation in that meeting; although thirty-four other states were there, fully represented, including all the other states of the Middle West excepting Wisconsin alone. Wisconsin failed to send a representative to the March 3rd Chicago meeting as it is told elsewhere in this issue. Now it is busy with its membership drive and all looks well for a very successful outcome of the undertaking.

Besides, it is getting in touch with the other counties in the state with the object of getting them to like and organize Farm Bureaus, and subsequently a State Farm Bureau Association. It is only the beginning, but the end will likely see the farmers of Wisconsin thoroughly organized for business all over the state on the County Farm Bureau basis, and ready to do their good share of county, state and national agricultural team work.

—Wis. Agrl.

(Hoard's Dairyman.) We present in the following a very liberal extract of an address delivered by Eugene Davenport, dean of the Illinois College of Agriculture, before the annual meeting of the Illinois Agricultural Association. The farm bureau and their federations, state and national, constitute at once the most progressive, the most rational, the most representative, and the most powerful organization ever devised by farmers. It is naturally progressive because founded upon a Federal Act looking to the improvement of agriculture and of the country life by means of definite machinery for insuring that the results both of science and of experience shall find their way into the farms of the nation and into the houses of the country with the least delay and to the greatest extent possible.

This organization is rational, or ought to be, because it is founded by the most radical, as is too often the case, especially with organized labor.

IRON CO. CAPITALIZES ITS BRIEF DAY OF FAME

(By Associated Press.) Iron River, Mich.—Iron county, scene of the "whiskey rebellion," is planning to capitalize its brief day of fame and leave a lasting remembrance of the comedy-melodrama which between state and federal officials which for seven days caused Iron River to displace the capitals of the world in the day's news.

A bronze "victory medal" for the veterans of the bloodless clash between Major A. V. Dalmayre, federal prohibition agent, and Protesting Attorney William S. McDonough, will be struck, if county commissioners carry out plans they are considering.

The victory medal plan, suggested by a facetious newspaperman, appealed to the fancy of the commissioners and they have asked the state to design a suitable emblem.

ORGANIZE. (The County Agent.) You Can't Do Everything All Alone. Are You "Agin What You Are For?"

There are a great many counties in the United States which as yet have no organized farm bureaus. Perhaps a thousand of the more progressive counties have seen the light, but even so, many have not attended to their own organization in the way they should.

When we have a businesslike farm bureau organized in every county in the United States, there will be a way out of our troubles. If you have not already taken steps in your county to organize a farm bureau, it is high time that you were about it. If you do not believe in farm bureau organization, you should resign.

Not Mamma from Heaven. The old idea was that the county agent was sent in some beneficent manner to tell the poor farmer how to farm. That idea has long been exploded although the politicians, some of them, still have it.

A farm bureau is a business organization under the direction of the local agricultural brains in the county to conduct business on business principles.

Learning the Game. (The County Agent.) One of the fine things about a real farm bureau is that it is not a thing both sides of every proposition. That it will not try to antagonize everything but will "prove all things and hold fast to that which is good." It has been gradually evolved, from time immemorial. The millennium will not come through any revolution. The farm bureau is being organized on a business basis, will always be able to get what is coming and insure a square deal to all parties concerned. That is the big thing.

Thus has the Rock County Farm Bureau gotten into action. Once it has gotten into full swing backed by the excellent membership of real farmers that it promises to have before the close of this month, one may look forward to its accomplishing great and lasting results for the general good of its community of farmers and those other counties in the state that follow its example.

Geo. W. Hull, its president, is a capable business farmer and leader of men. For some time he has also been the chairman of the Rock County Board of Supervisors; and in that office, has performed a distinct service to his community and to all and an intelligent businesslike administration of the affairs of the county. His leadership, together with that of his executive committee and directors, is recognized as the type of leadership that will serve the best interests of the general advancement of farming and the entire community.

Up in Jackson County, where the other County Farm Bureau in this state has completed its initial organization, there are no permanent officers have yet been elected, but a membership drive is now being conducted which promises to at once place this Bureau on a solid foundation.

(Wis. Agriculturist.) Wisconsin is one of the two states which has not adopted the County Farm Bureau plan, and is the only state out of the thirty-three Northern and Western states that has no county organization of any form, though special committees on agriculture provided by its state law, for administering county agent work. These special agricultural committees were into effect a year ago and consist of the chairman of the county board, the county superintendent of schools, and three practical farmers, appointed by the county board, one of whom shall be a member of the county board of supervisors. Executive Committee, Rock Co. Farm Bureau.

HOOVER'S LETTER CREATES SENSATION

the republican and democratic platforms—I shall wait and see which is progressive and which is reactionary.

Hoover Against Entanglements. But the politicians in both parties don't like that and insist upon knowing what Mr. Hoover thought or did in the past. So the record is being unfolded. The unpublished letter is a more effective argument than any member of the republican party in the senate has made, for "disassociation of the United States from European entanglements. Mr. Hoover wrote his views to President Wilson in Paris in April 1919—long before he could be suspected of gunning for any nomination. He said in part:

"I feel strongly that any continuation of the United States in such an ill-considered relationship would militate against the efficiency of the league of nations. My reasons are as follows:

"First: These commissions are primarily to assist the enforcement of reparations and other conditions imposed upon the central empires. As the United States is not calling for any foreign reparations it is a quixotic continued enforcement, our presence on these commissions would be for one of the following purposes:

"(a) To give moral and political support to the allied governments in measures generally to their benefit. It cannot be conceived that in the prostrate condition of the enemy that the allies will require any physical assistance to the enforcement of their demands.

"In this event the United States will be lending itself to the political and financial interests of other governments during peace, a situation that must be entirely repulsive to our national interests, traditions and ideals."

"(b) Another objective might be that we should remain in these commissions with a view to securing peace and moderation in the demands of the allies against the central empires. We would thus be thrust into the repulsive position of the defender of our late enemy, in order to secure what we would conceive to be constructive and statesmanlike rehabilitation in Europe. Our experience during the last few months have shown us bitterly that we thus subject ourselves to complaint and attack from the allied governments and such a continued relationship should only breed the most acute international friction."

Must Say "Yes" or Be Ruined. Mr. Hoover goes on to say that the "practical result of our experience already is that the Americans who sit on such commissions, if they don't acquiesce and assist in enforcing any propositions from various governments, become immediately and personally subject to attack as being inimical to their interests and quixotic power engines of propaganda which they employ in Europe and in our own country, no such man can endure for long."

It was known to newspaper correspondents at the Paris peace conference that Mr. Hoover felt particularly embittered over what he believed to be a hostile British propaganda directed toward him and I have no doubt he had this in mind when he wrote the foregoing passage in his letter.

Mr. Hoover's communication does not oppose a league of nations but says, "If we can bring to an early end our relationship to these political combinations in Europe which grew up before and during the war, and can lend our strength to the league of nations, that body will gain a stability and importance, which it could not otherwise attain."

Mr. Hoover sees the league as "a strong and independent court of appeal that will have our authority."

He concludes with this observation:

Drugging in United States

"I am convinced that there has grown up since the armistice the policy, perhaps unconscious but nevertheless effective of dragging the United States into every political and economic question in Europe and constantly endeavoring to secure pledges of economic and political support from us in return—for our agreeing to matters which we consider for their common good, where we have no interest, and constantly using us as a stalking horse, economically and politically, solely in the interests of internal political groups in the allied governments. These objectives and interests may be perfectly justified from their point of view, but they force us into violation of every instinct and into situations that our own people will never stand. For instance, I don't see how we can remain in these enforcement commissions unless we participate in the military enforcement with its enormous cost and risk and the tendency will always be to exact the political objective with the military strength of the United States as a background."

Hoover With the Republicans. The dragging in of conception of Americanism which has been so closely associated with republican argument in the senate that regardless of the extreme point of view of Senators Borah and Johnson, it will probably find its way in the republican platform at Chicago.

The democrats are a bit disappointed—that is, the Wilson democrats to find Mr. Hoover not going along with the mind of the president on the league of nations, but there are plenty of democrats who think the Hoover point of view harmonizes better with the Bryan idea, and western democracy. They are not ready to give Mr. Hoover up as a republican. And the non-partisan friends of Mr. Hoover only smile—they are slowly proving Mr. Hoover eligible for the republican nomination which they seem to think is a surer way to win, though it will be closed they are not closing the door to a democratic nomination altogether.

ABSD MARRIAGE IS NO GOOD WITH JUDGE

La Crosse.—The fact that a marriage is absurd does not justify a court in granting a divorce in the opinion of Judge E. C. Higbee, who denied the petition of Emma Narverson for a separation from Thomas Narverson. Both had been married before and were the parents of mature children when they wedded. She alleged non-support and drunkenness, neither of which charge was proven in the opinion of the court.

FINANCE

The direct tendency of foreign exchange and the decline in the call money rate to 6 percent influenced the market. The prices of automobiles and equipments were then the outstanding features in connection with the automobile show and the contracting. Oil also rose briskly. Heavy trading in speculative issues was reported. The market was excited in one of the busiest morning sessions in recent weeks, shares with a high of 100 points, and fell to 18 points. The heavy buying and selling of shares was caused, according to reports, by the recommendation of the secretary of the treasury to the president to raise the excise profits tax. Sales of the war hour exceeded 500,000 shares. The market was also excited in railroad, motors, railway equipment, leather, cattle and shipping shares. Stutz automobile shares were at 100, American Motors 9 to 32 1/2, American Cattle 9 to 10, American Cars 10 to 11, and American Trucks 10 to 11.

Spring Exposition

March eighteen and nineteen

Fashions in fabrics, in spring attire, and in the small accessories on which women of discrimination are aware that good grooming depends, emphasize the decorative. Sheer beauty is woven into the very warp and woof of the lovely things collected from near and far for your inspection at this Exposition. To see them is to glean new inspiration in developing spring costumes of distinction and charm.

"Remember Moderate Prices Prevail Here."

Interesting Suits and Coats

A wave of feeling for the beautiful has not left Suits and Coats untouched, for everywhere one sees rich embroidery, luxurious materials, gay linings and colorful silks enlivening Suits and Coats of tricotine, Poiré twill and soft surfaced fabrics. Smart little Etons, Tuxedos or slightly flared jackets often have slim straight skirts or many plaited ones which give the slender silhouette. One sees in suits the distended hip line tapering to a trim narrowness at the ankles. Suits or Coats selected from this comprehensive collection are bound to bring pleasure as well as service to their fair wearers.

Fabrics of Rarest Beauty

Silken weaves, glorious with color, beautiful with design and wonderful with suppleness, are inspirations for gowns, sports costumes and graceful wraps. Embossed tricollette, mignonette, Fan-ta-si, Kumsi-Kumsa, Shantungs, sports satins and taffetas are among the delightful stuffs. In woollens there are tricotines, twills, plaids, homespun, checks, light weight velours and new duvetyns from which the smart trotteur or suit for spring wear is evolved. The new muslins too, with their sheer loveliness and coloring, contribute generously to the importance of this display.

The Latest Fancy in Hats

Fruits, flowers, fancy pins and fancy straws, embroideries and feathers embellish hats for every daytime and evening occasion. Color and light are attained by glistening straws and mettalic embroideries. Every little chapeau seems to have as its motto in life to make some fair damsel lovelier.

Frocks Delightfully New

In Turkey, across the sea and here at home the same delightful discovery has been made, that tucked under Turkish skirts are very fascinating. When made of the season's soft, supple silks, they are gracefully becoming. Simple long waisted blouses with minute French sleeves often accompany the Turkish skirt. Sometimes the puffiness is at the hips in the form of plaitings, ruffles or panniers, in which case the line at the ankles is quite narrow. Gay embroideries, beadings in Indian colorings or fringes embellish street frocks of tricotine and twill serge, or afternoon gowns of the season's irresistible filmy and silken fabrics.

Everything for the Children

Wise people were the French when long ago they evolved delectable pretty things for their youngsters. In gingham, chambray, and organdie have been made charmingly picturesque frocks for girls. In coats, bonnets and caps of all descriptions, hosiery and spring underthings, there is everything to outfit that small person who must "bud" out in the springtime.

New Blouses and Skirts

Weighted with beading or embroidery filmy overblouses with a slim satin skirt form a very lovely afternoon costume. Batik chiffons,orgette, net and laces are other soft fabrics from which smart blouses are evolved. In lingerie blouses one sees much fine handwork in the form of drawnwork, tuckings, cordings and embroidery on batistes, organdie, and voile. To wear with blouses are delightful skirts of silk, pastel in colorings, plaid woollens, checks, twills and tweeds. The tendency in separate skirts is to follow slim lines even though knife and accordion plaited.

Spring Undergarments

Like melodies tuneful with color and delicate nuances is lingerie designed for Milady. Handwork appears on many garments: In satin, crepe de Chine, fine nainsooks and batistes the very loveliest, most irresistibly feminine creations are offered, decorated with knots of pastel ribbons, flat flowers, real laces, drawn work and embroidery. One may select nightgowns, step-in combinations, camisoles and knickers or the very newest conception, which is the short chemise and its accompanying pantalon.

FEMALE HELP WANTED
ARE YOU MISS BROWN?

I read what you wrote some time ago about your experiences in the Gossard Factory, and I thought I would try the work. I am very glad I came. It is all you said it is and more too.

I was a little discouraged at first. I thought I never could learn to work fast like the girl who sat opposite me, but it is going just fine. A person must have a little patience, that is all.

I wish more girls could know how pleasant the work is. My wages have been advanced twice since I came, and the coffee at lunch hour is the best ever.

I heard the superintendent say they want more girls. I don't see why he doesn't advertise for them and just tell the truth about how nice everything is about the factory.

We Invite You Cordially

J.M. BOSTWICK & SONS.

Our First Formal Showing of The New Spring Styles Will Take Place Tomorrow and Saturday

Every season as you know hundreds of different styles appear for recognition and acceptance by the feminine public. Some of them attain their desired destination while the others depart from the stage to sink into obscurity and forgetfulness.

We scrupulously watched the weather-cock of fashion to see which way the wind blew before making the selections which we submit to you in this display. We choose only the idols of the hour—the cream of the prettiest presented—and it is these which we now solicit you to come and see. No attempt will be made to induce you to purchase any of them. We want you here as our guest of the occasion. If you choose to make a selection it must be of your own accord. Low prices will be in evidence to induce spontaneous buying and render economies which were not anticipated by those who desire to take advantage of them.

Charming Indeed are the New Blouses

What a wealth of beauties we have to offer you for inspection and selection. Designers have imposed no restrictions on their imagination in creating them. Models which will have no difficulty in passing the censorship of the women of fashion, Georgette Crepe, Crepe de Chine, Net, Tub Silks, Voiles, Organdies, etc. So artistically adorned with dainty frills, beads and embroidered effects.

Styles and Colors Galore in Smart Spring Coats

Just drop into our apparel section and feast your eye on the myriads of New Coats we have just received for immediate wear. If they do not just strike your fancy by their beauty of line, fineness of finish, quality of fabric, richness of color and smartness in style, we will be very much disappointed—and their prices are very reasonable, too.

An Attractive Showing of Dresses

We would be delighted to show them to you. There is just enough variety in the styles we are showing to make the choosing of one's dresses a most delightful pastime. There are so many new style notes to this showing that one would have to see them to appreciate their quiet distinctiveness. Be sure and see these new dresses.

Favored Dress Fabrics are Here in an Endless Variety

Hundreds upon hundreds of yards of the prettiest Spring and Summer Dress Goods you ever did see. It will be well to view this brilliant exhibition. This showing will familiarize you with the fabrics which are most desired for future wear and will save you the annoyance of choosing goods which do not promise to be popular instead of those that do. And the prices are most attractive.

These Charming Suits are Sure to Please You

We have anticipated your spring requirements with an assortment which has never been rivalled in this vicinity. Not only is the number of styles large, but the garments themselves are more dressy and effective than any we have heretofore shown. We are safe in assuring you entire satisfaction with any suit you purchase of us, because we made sure of their quality and desirability before we bought them.

Take a Peep at the New Silks

These are the days when Women's thoughts tend towards new frocks for the season. One has only to come to see them to satisfy one's curiosity as to what is the favored by the fashion arbiters for the coming season. To see them is to be enraptured by their subtle charm. Silks of every weave, variety and color. Well suited for creations of Suits, Coats, Dresses, Blouses, and Skirts for every occasion.

Strikingly Beautiful are the New Spring Skirts

An inspection of them is respectfully requested. They comprise only those styles that have come to stay. Every conceivable material is represented in our all embracing array, and every pattern and color is also included. Novelty fabrics are prominent, and the prices make every garment an irresistible value.

Besides the Elaborate Display of Apparel

we have clothed every section of The Big Store in its best Spring Opening Attire. An almost endless display of Beautiful Neckwear, Ribbons, Gloves, Hosiery, Trimmings, Art Needlework, Handkerchiefs, Veils, Jewelry, Hand Bags, Belts, Undermuslins, Sweaters, Petticoats, Corsets and what not awaits your inspection.

Second Floor

Brighten up the home with new Rugs, Curtains and Draperies, etc., which we have just received from America's best makers. Every room is made brighter and more inviting and of course more pleasant by the addition of a new Rug, a few Curtains, and some Draperies. Be sure and visit this department—Second floor.

Pretty Neckwear Plays an Important Part in the Showing of Spring Fashions

Many exceedingly dainty and effective styles have been originated, and all are on display here. The sort of neckwear that lends distinction to the costume with which it is worn.

Women's Gloves for Easter Wear

Supply your wants at our Glove Dept. Everything new and desirable is here for your choosing. Remember, Gloves play an important part in your wardrobe.

Newest Wash Fabrics for Spring

The new wash fabrics are certainly attractive—a sight that will make you breathe the very air of springtime, and bring thoughts of the glorious days that are just approaching, when we can discard our heavy wraps and don garments fashioned of pretty wash materials. We consider this season's showing of wash fabrics to be one of the best assortments of high-class fabrics ever offered to our trade.

Dainty Undermuslins for Spring and Summer Wear

Dainty Snow White Garments, beautifully designed, nicely trimmed and finished, have just been unpacked—and we eagerly await to present you with every little lingerie needful you could possibly require for immediate and future wear.
